CCAgr's 5th Annual Canadian-Chinese Farm Start Seminar Shows Great Promise for Canadian Agriculture

The Canada-China Agriculture and Food Development Exchange Centre was thrilled with the turn out of the 5th annual Canadian Chinese Farmer and Farm Start Investor Seminar that took place on Saturday February 16, 2013. Due to the overwhelming response, the CCAgr had to stop registration 2 weeks before the deadline. With an audience of over 80 Canadian-Chinese farmers and investors, the room was full of people eager to hear about the booming agricultural opportunities in Canada.

A two hour presentation was given by CCAgr's President, Youming Zhao and Office Assistant, Danielle Santoli. The topics of discussion included: the role of the CCAgr, how to successfully invest and manage your Canadian agricultural business/farm and most importantly, knowing your rights and responsibilities as a Canadian agri-business owner.

KiKi Maple Sweet Water Receives Overwhelming Response to Promotional Event

On February 27, 2013 at Star Walk International Buffet in Toronto, the Canada-China Agriculture and Food Development Exchange Centre held a promotional event for KiKi Maple Sweet Water beverages. Despite the snow storm, the event was very successful with more than 40 importers/exporters, business owners and investors in attendance. There were also several news reporters, newspapers, and TV stations who attended to see what KiKi Maple Sweet Water beverages were all about. Owner of Troll Bridge Creek and creator of KiKi Maple Sweet Water, Mr. Keith Harris, gave an excellent presentation to the group illustrating the benefits of these beverages and his future plans for China's market.

Modern Agriculture Development Training Program for Chinese Delegations

The Canada-China Agriculture and Food Development Exchange Centre (CCAGR) is proud to be working with York University to conduct the Canada Modern Agriculture Development Training Program for the delegations of the Fujian Province Agriculture Department. There will be approximately 18 people in attendance. These people will include government officials, investors and CEO's from large agricultural companies in China.

This program will begin on March 4, 2013 and will run for a total of three weeks. Many important professionals are on the list of educators for the duration of this program, including, specialists from the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs (OMAFRA), University professors and various representatives from large Canadian agriculture and agri-food companies. The CCAGR will take this opportunity to promote Canada's agricultural products and agri-food for export, as well as attract Chinese investment in Canadian businesses in the near and hopeful future.
